

Prof. Atay has obtained his PhD in Applied Mathematics from Brown University in 1994. He has held positions in both academia and industry before joining the Max Planck Institute for Mathematics in the Sciences in 2002 as a Principal Investigator. His research interests include dynamical systems, delay equations, networks and graph theory, complex systems, and mathematical neuroscience.